

PROJECT POLARIS

NAMING WORKBOOK

A family review of 175 first-pass brand candidates

Prepared for family discussion. Creative screening only - not a trademark, domain, app-store, or social-handle clearance report.

How to use this workbook

A name should earn emotional enthusiasm and survive practical screening.

Start with instinct. Mark each candidate Love, Like, Maybe, or Pass. Do not overthink availability in this first round. Circle names that feel interesting, memorable, trustworthy, and worth saying aloud. Add notes on what you like or dislike about the sound, story, or visual feel.

After the family reduces the list to roughly 10 finalists, Polaris will run deeper checks: App Store and Google Play search, domain and social-handle checks, USPTO preliminary search, web crowding review, and attorney-led trademark clearance before any public commitment.

What we are naming

The product promise, not just an astronomy app.

Polaris is an advisory companion for smart-telescope users. It turns conditions, equipment, available time, and imaging history into a clear answer to: What should I do tonight? The eventual public name should feel memorable, intriguing, credible, and ownable. Project Polaris remains an internal codename until a final name is selected and cleared.

Initial creative screen	What it means
Memorability	Easy to recall after hearing it once
Pronunciation	Comfortable to say and spell aloud
Brandability	Can grow beyond one feature or telescope
Visual potential	Works as an icon, wordmark, or badge
Emotional appeal	Feels inviting, capable, or intriguing
Mission fit	Feels aligned with guidance, readiness, and imaging confidence

My first-pass Top 25

These are the best starting points for discussion - not approved or cleared names.

Name	Why it stands out	Screen	Vote
Noctara	Night-readiness name with a calm, premium feel. It implies nighttime without saying astronomy.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Lumora	Light plus guidance energy. It is warm, memorable, and visually adaptable.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Cielora	A coined name inspired by ciel, the French word for sky. Distinctive and elegant.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Navora	Navigation-oriented without being tied to a single telescope brand or astronomy term.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Sidera	From the Latin root for stars. Short, serious, and broad enough to grow with the company.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Auralis	Suggests light, atmosphere, and intelligence. Strong premium visual territory.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Solvane	Invented and active-sounding. It suggests solving the nightly decision without being literal.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Orivane	A distinctive coined brand with an exploratory, forward-moving feel.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Veyra	Short, modern, and app-icon friendly. Meaning would be defined by Polaris over time.	High	Love Like Maybe Pass
Calyro	Compact invented name with a technical but approachable sound.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Caelora	Sky-rooted, premium, and flexible for a consumer product or parent company.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Orynt	Modern and directional. Very compact, but pronunciation would need testing.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Arivon	Invented, clean, and scalable beyond a single astronomy function.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Cadria	A memorable coined name that could support a compass, frame, or star-path visual identity.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Virelia	Suggests vitality and light. More lyrical, with strong aesthetic potential.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Wayvera	A guidance name with a subtle night-travel feeling. Slightly more descriptive than invented names.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Sextara	A navigation throwback to sextants, with an approachable modern ending.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass

Name	Why it stands out	Screen	Vote
Keplara	Honors Kepler while creating a more brand-like form. Historical territory needs careful clearance.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Alhazen	A meaningful homage to a foundational figure in optics. Strong story, but requires deeper screening.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Astrion	Directly celestial but less generic than Astro-prefixed names. Still needs crowding review.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Starward	A clear sense of motion and aspiration. Very memorable, but likely crowded and needs deep review.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
Firstlight	Emotionally resonant for astrophotography. Descriptive territory is likely crowded.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
NightPilot	Communicates the product role immediately. Strong clarity, but less ownable than coined options.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
ScopeCue	Clear smart-telescope behavior: cue the next action. More functional than expansive.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass
TargetCue	Very direct and beginner-friendly. Likely a useful product-feature name even if not the company name.	Medium	Love Like Maybe Pass

Next step: Polaris performs a preliminary web, app-store, domain, social-handle, and USPTO scan on the finalists. A trademark attorney should clear the final one or two candidates before public launch, company formation under the name, or paid brand work.
